DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-3 and 15 are drawn to a composition, classified in class 424, subclass 9.6.
 - II. Claims 4-14 and 16 are drawn to a method of performing a diagnostic procedure, classified in class 424, subclass 9.6.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. See MPEP § 806.05(h). In the instant case the pharmaceutically acceptable composition has many different applications other than utilization for performing a diagnostic procedure. Saccharide and polysaccharides derivatives can be used as food additives, such as sweeteners, benzoindole styryl compounds can be used to form the recording layer of high density recording media and peptide derivatives are used for crosslinking to DNA. The process for using the composition for performing a diagnostic procedure can be practiced with other chemically distinct compounds, such as radionuclides.

3. Claims 1-16 are generic to the following disclosed patentably distinct species: indole-like, benzimidazole, benzoxazole, and benzothiazole as well as their derivatives, such as indocarbocyanine, indoledisulfonate, carbocyanine-polyaspartic acid as well as those listed in the instant claims. The species of diagnostic procedures consists of renal function, cardiac function, kidney function monitoring or determining organ perfusion. The species are independent or distinct because the compounds are structurally distinct, contain different functional groups and chemical properties that would require undue burden to the office. The diagnostic procedure species are distinct because functions of the heart do not affect the kidney and vice versa. Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species, even though this requirement is traversed. Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

4. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
